

A friendly and intelligent family dog, the Labrador Retriever loves long walks and retrieving from water.

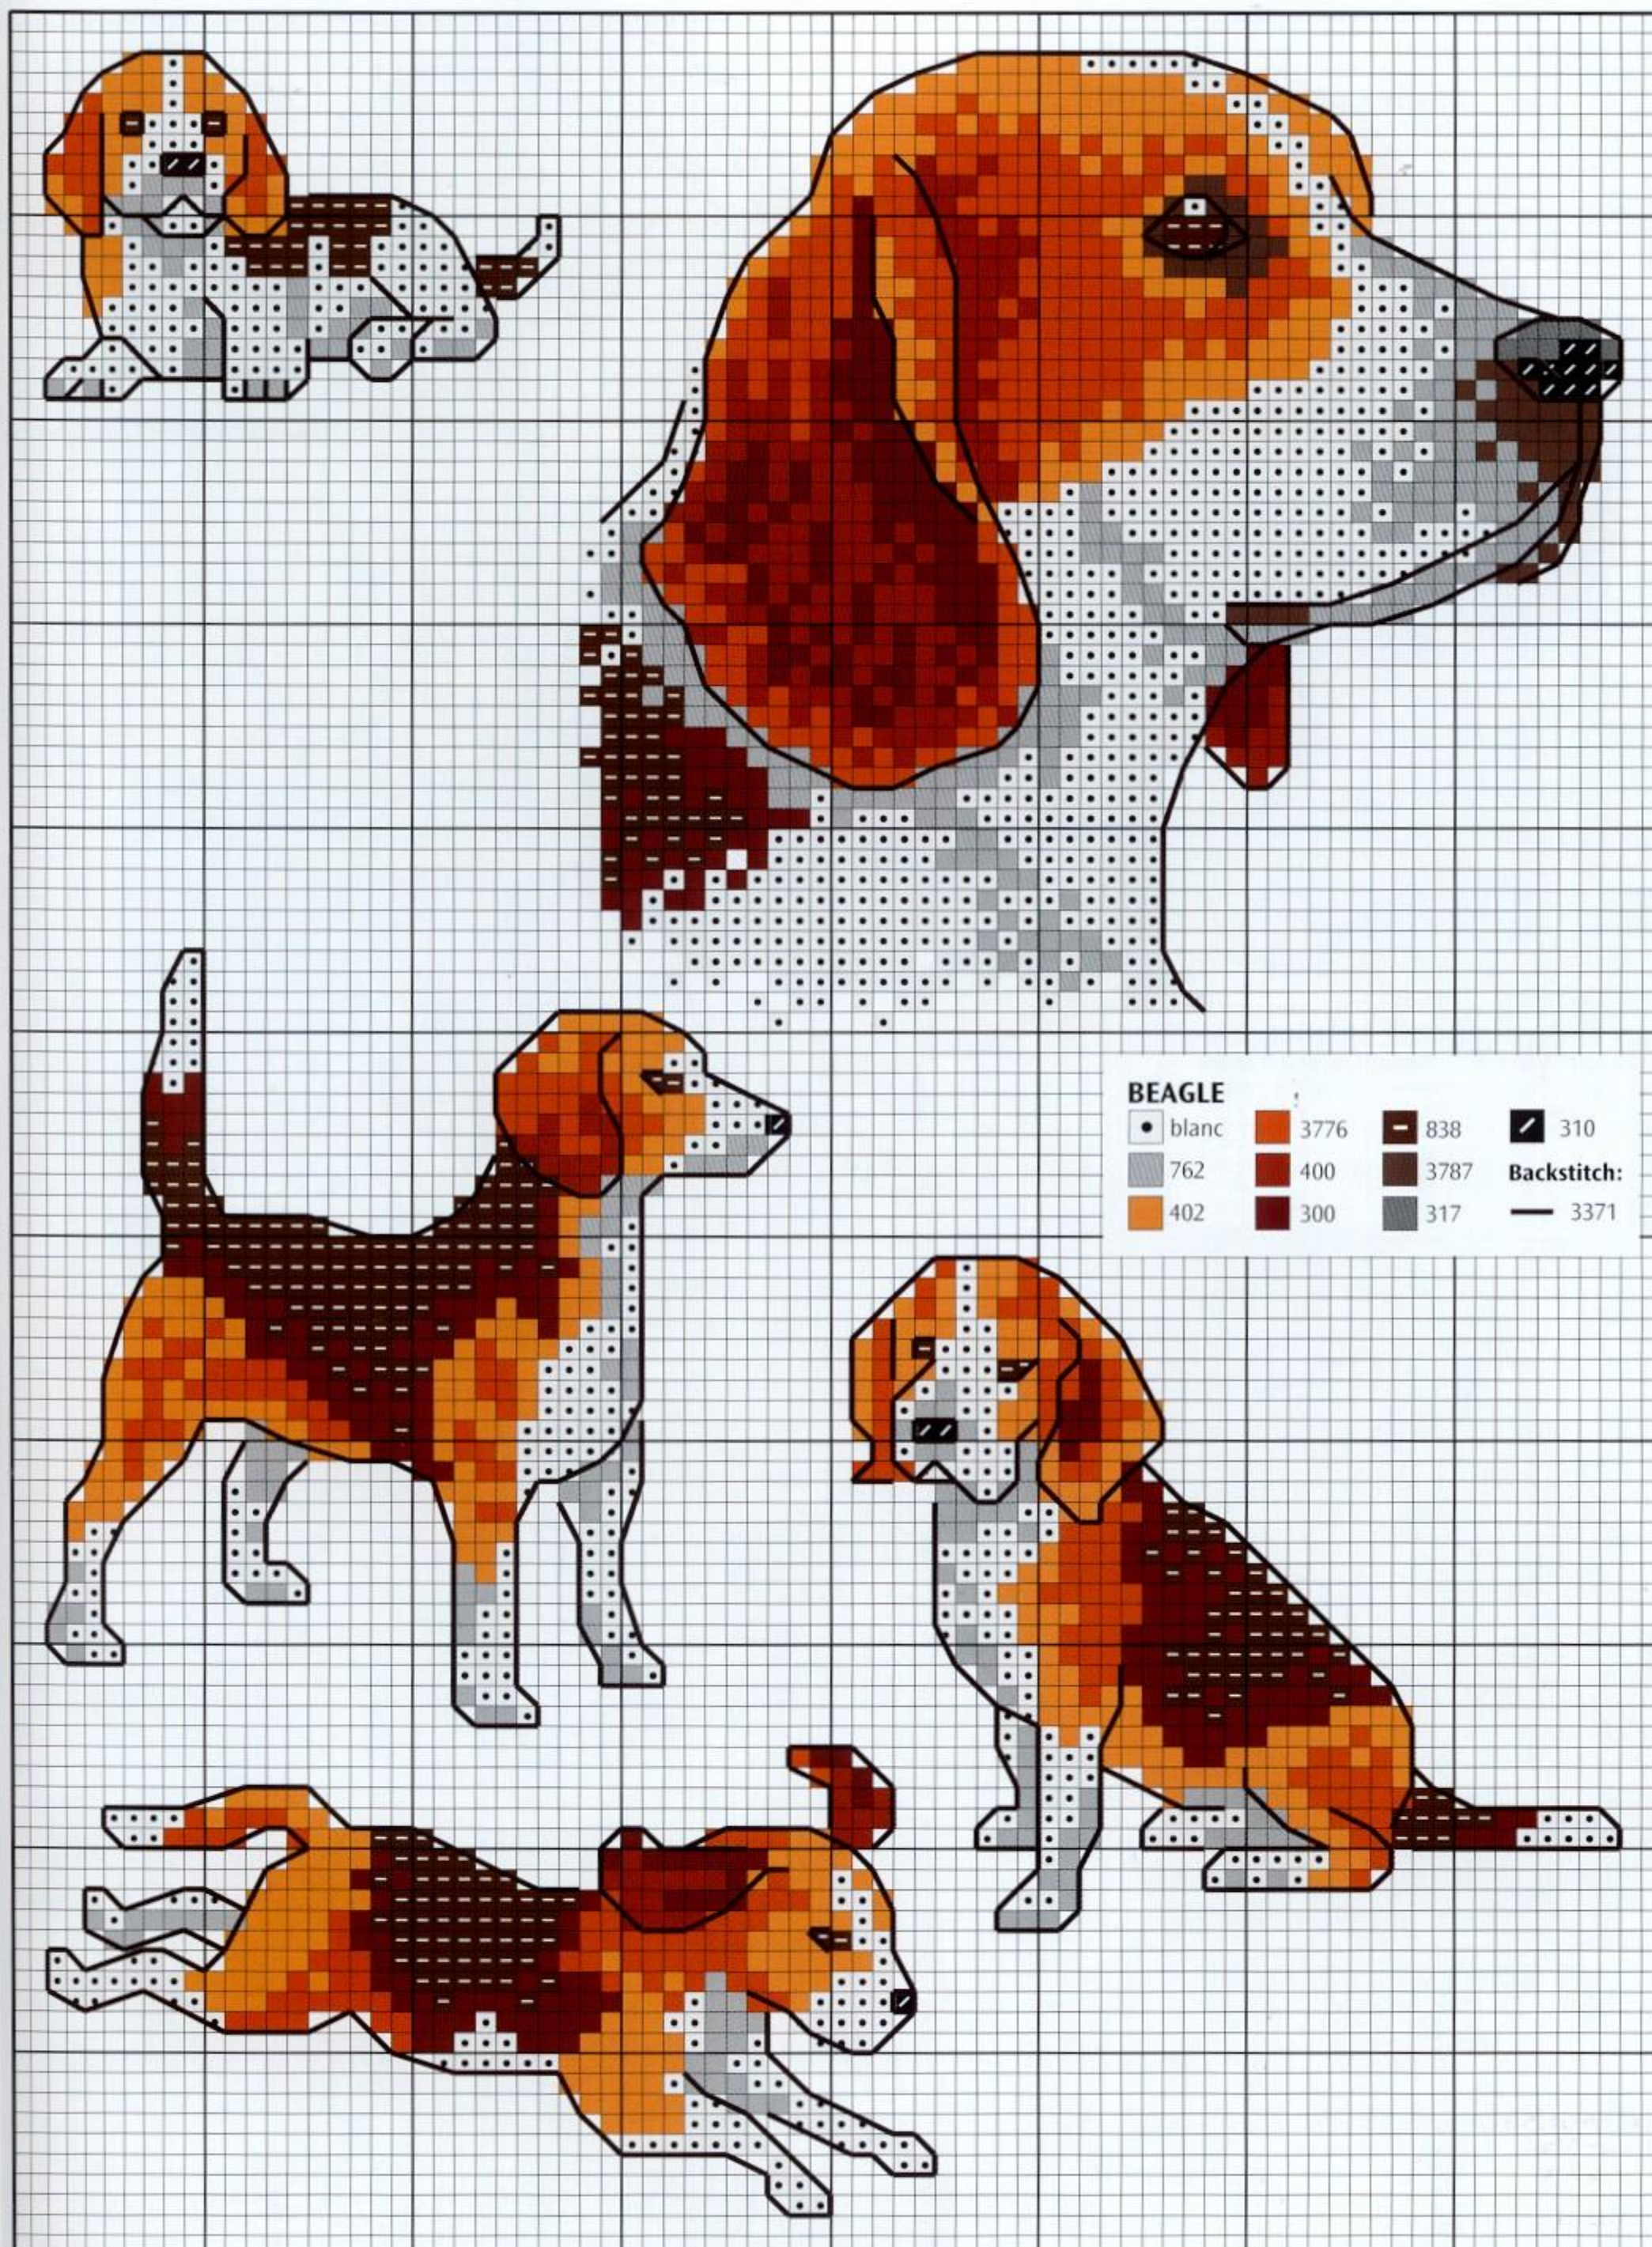

The German Shepherd is used as a guard dog and police dog in search and rescue, but is also a loyal companion.

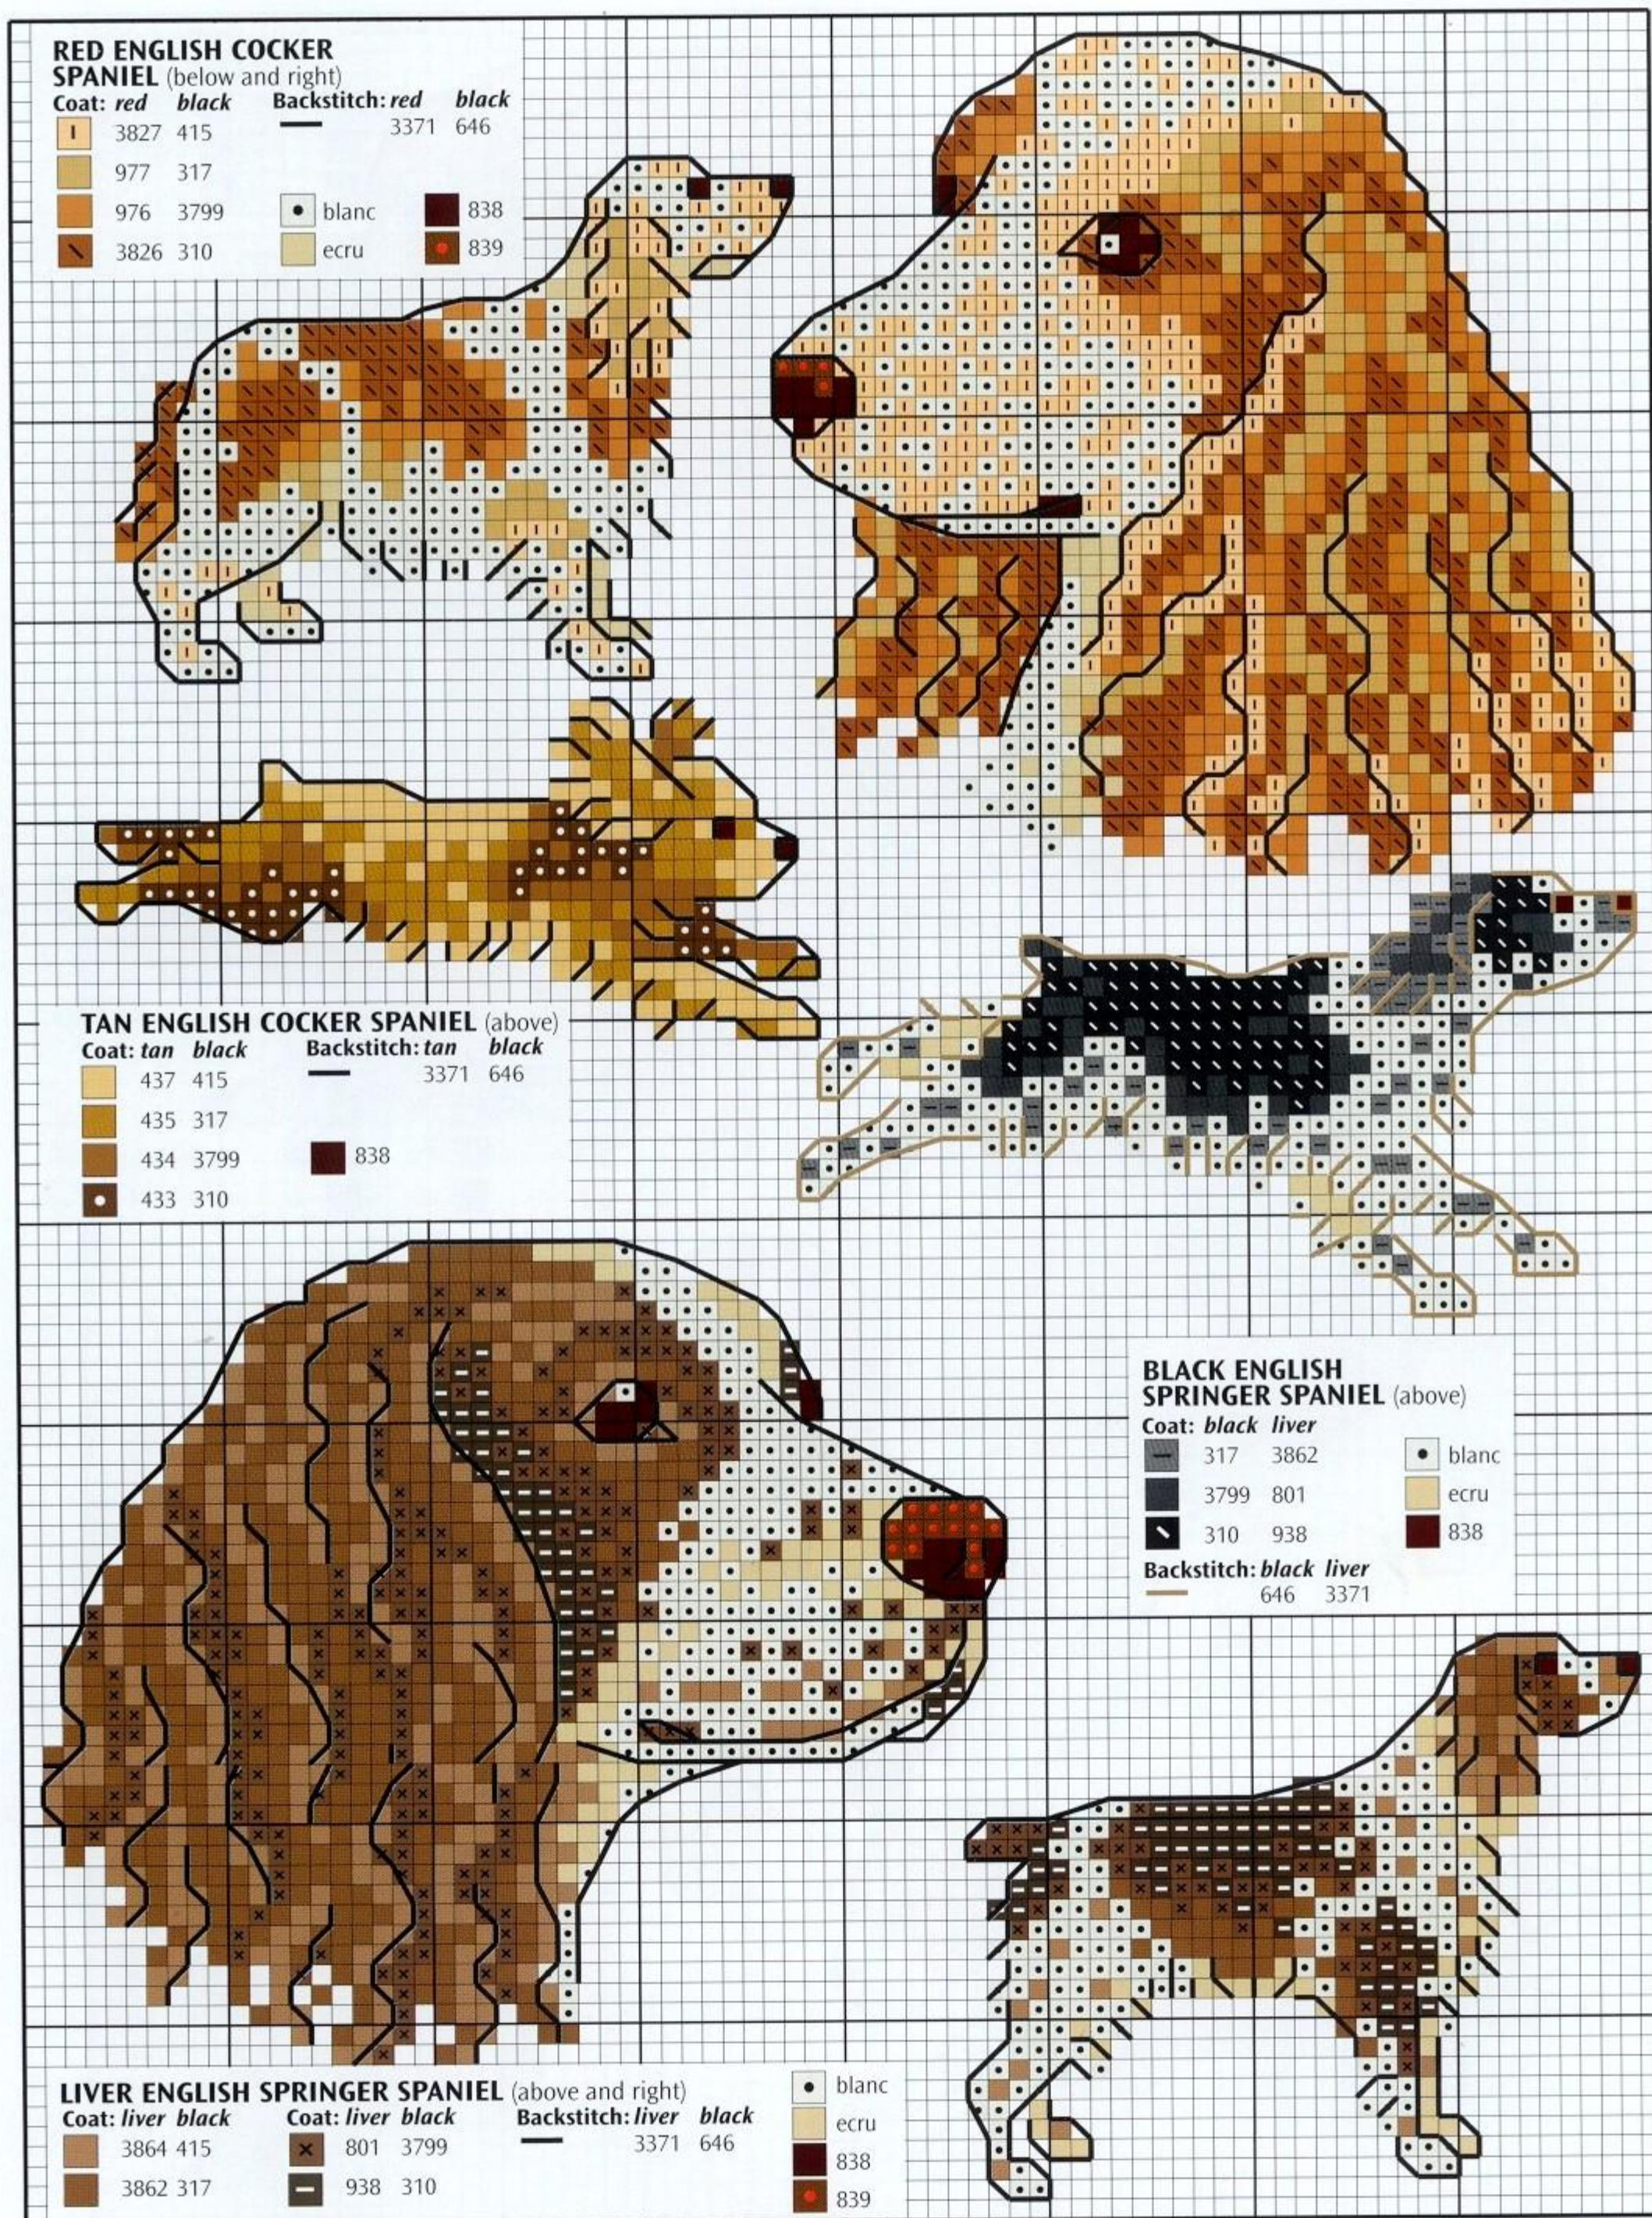

With its retrieving abilities and love of water, the Golden Retriever is easy to train but less easy to keep clean!

The Beagle is naturally exuberant with great stamina and determination, so walks often turn into runs.

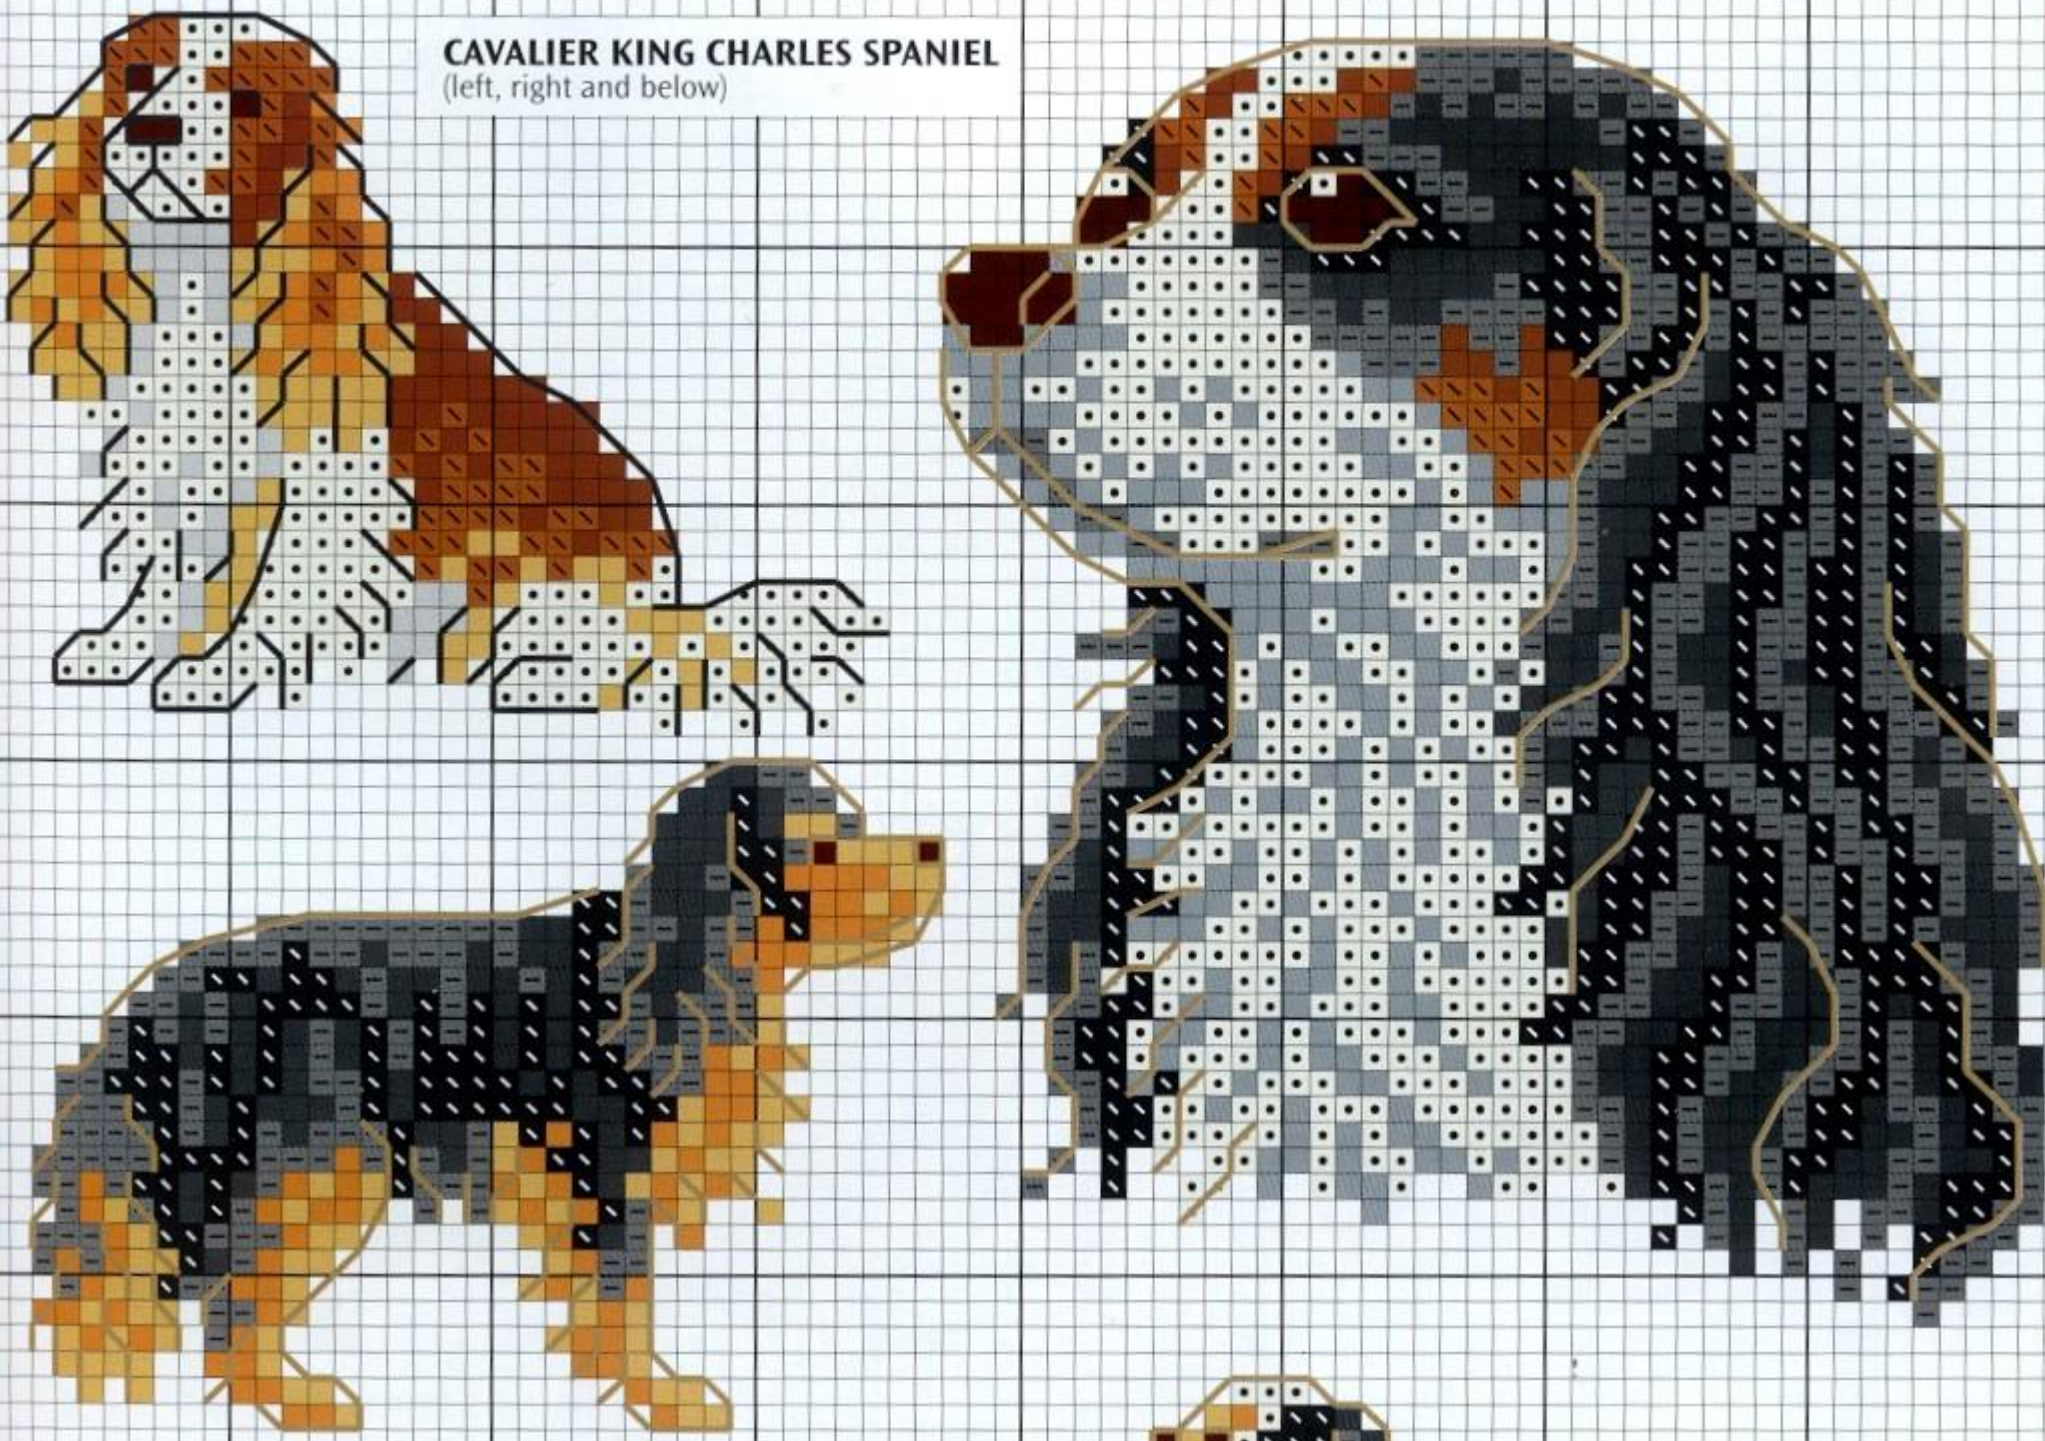

English Cocker and Springer Spaniels are always searching, always 'springing' – game or people!

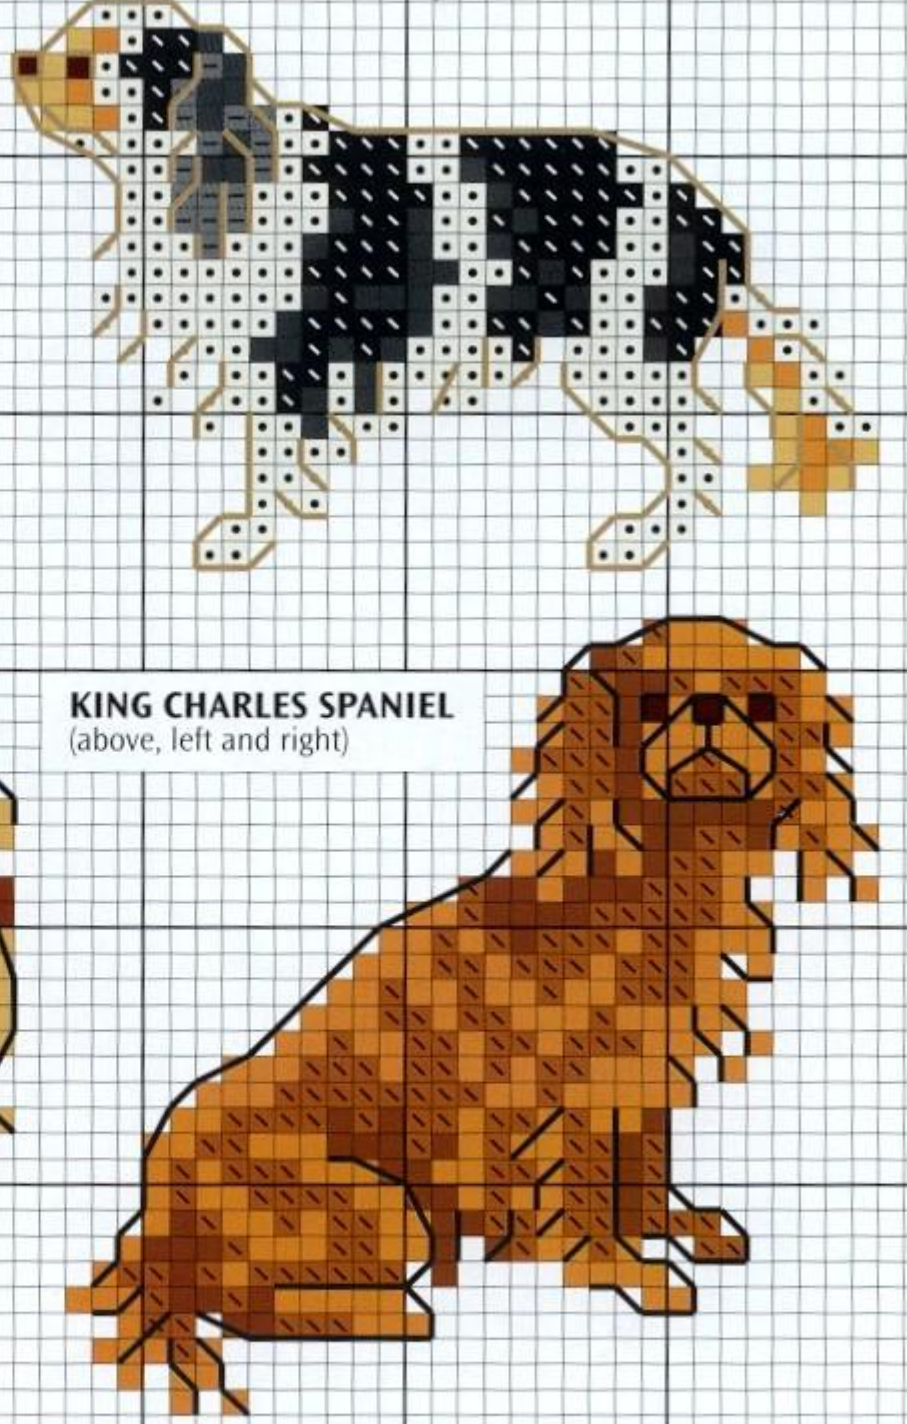

The Cavalier King Charles and King Charles Spaniels have placid and gentle temperaments.

The Shih Tzu, the Lhasa Lion dog, has a chrysanthemum-like face and a thick coat if left unclipped.

Known as the miniature fox, the Pomeranian is a natural show off, pirouetting and dancing on its lead.

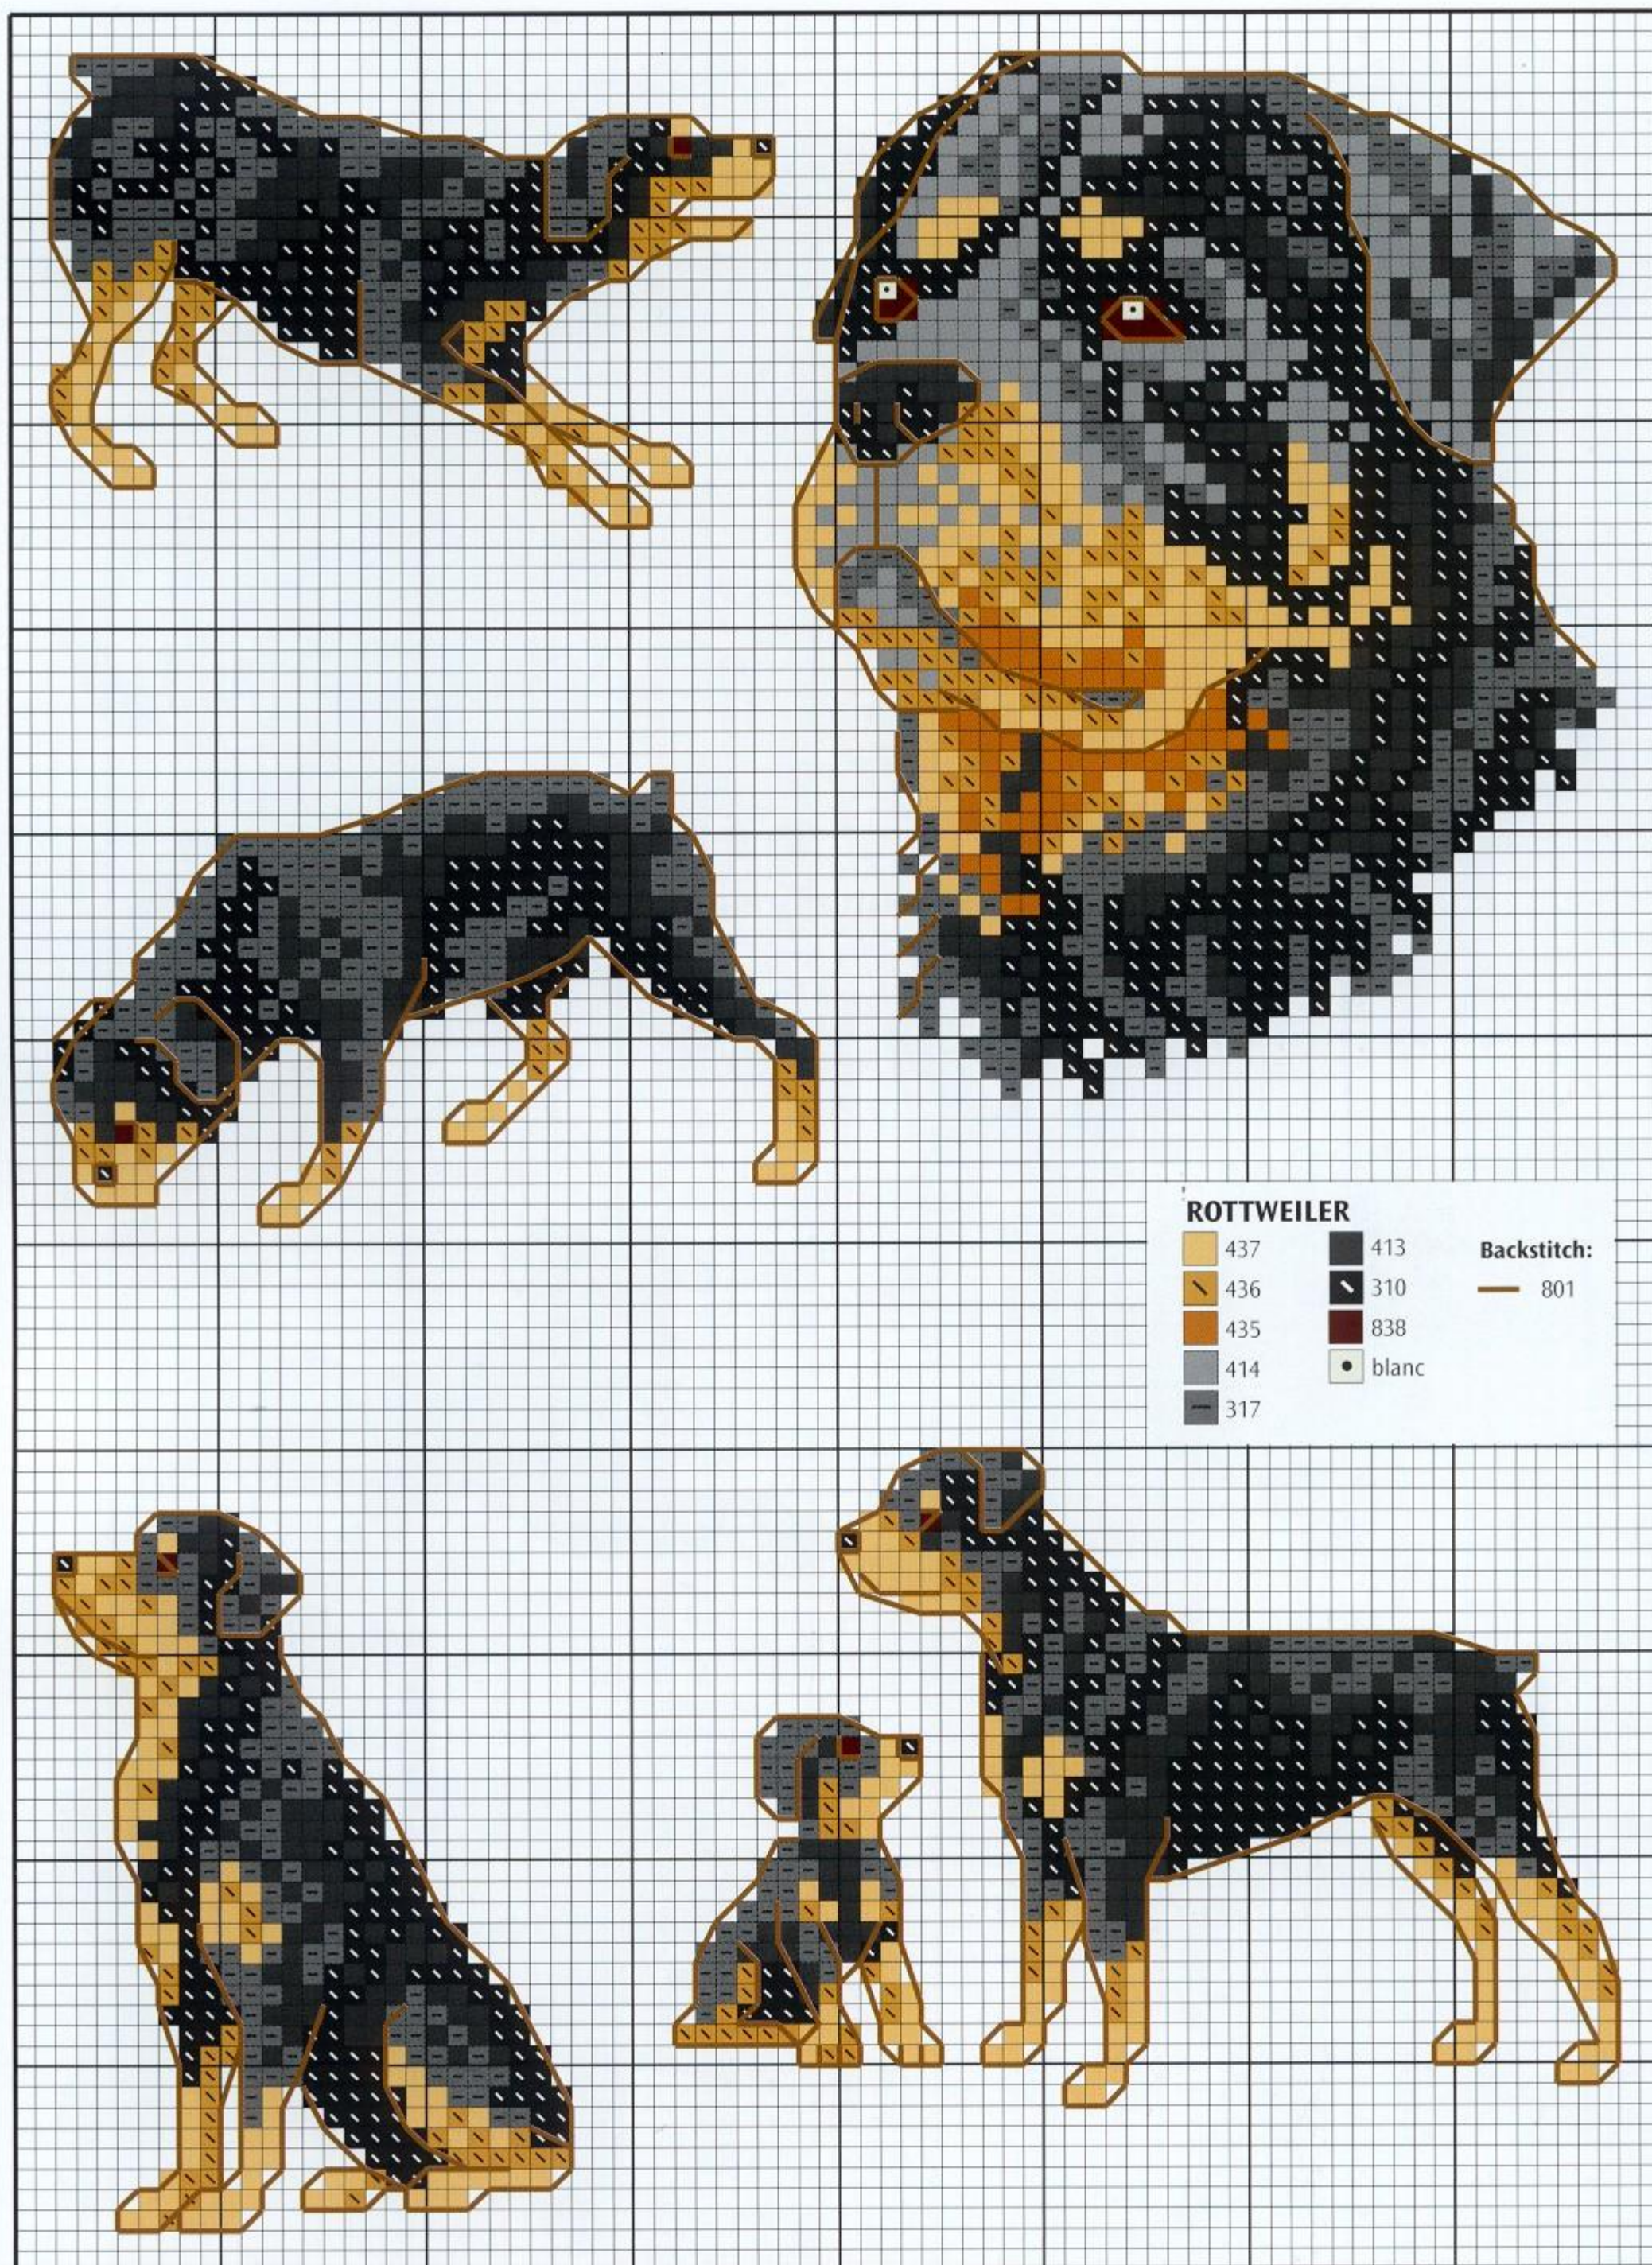

The Chihuahua is a brave little dog, always ready to stand up to larger, more aggressive dogs.

The Miniature Schnauzer has a face full of character with luxurious eyebrows and whiskers.

The Rottweiler is a dog for the experienced owner; good control is rewarded by this strong, courageous guard dog.

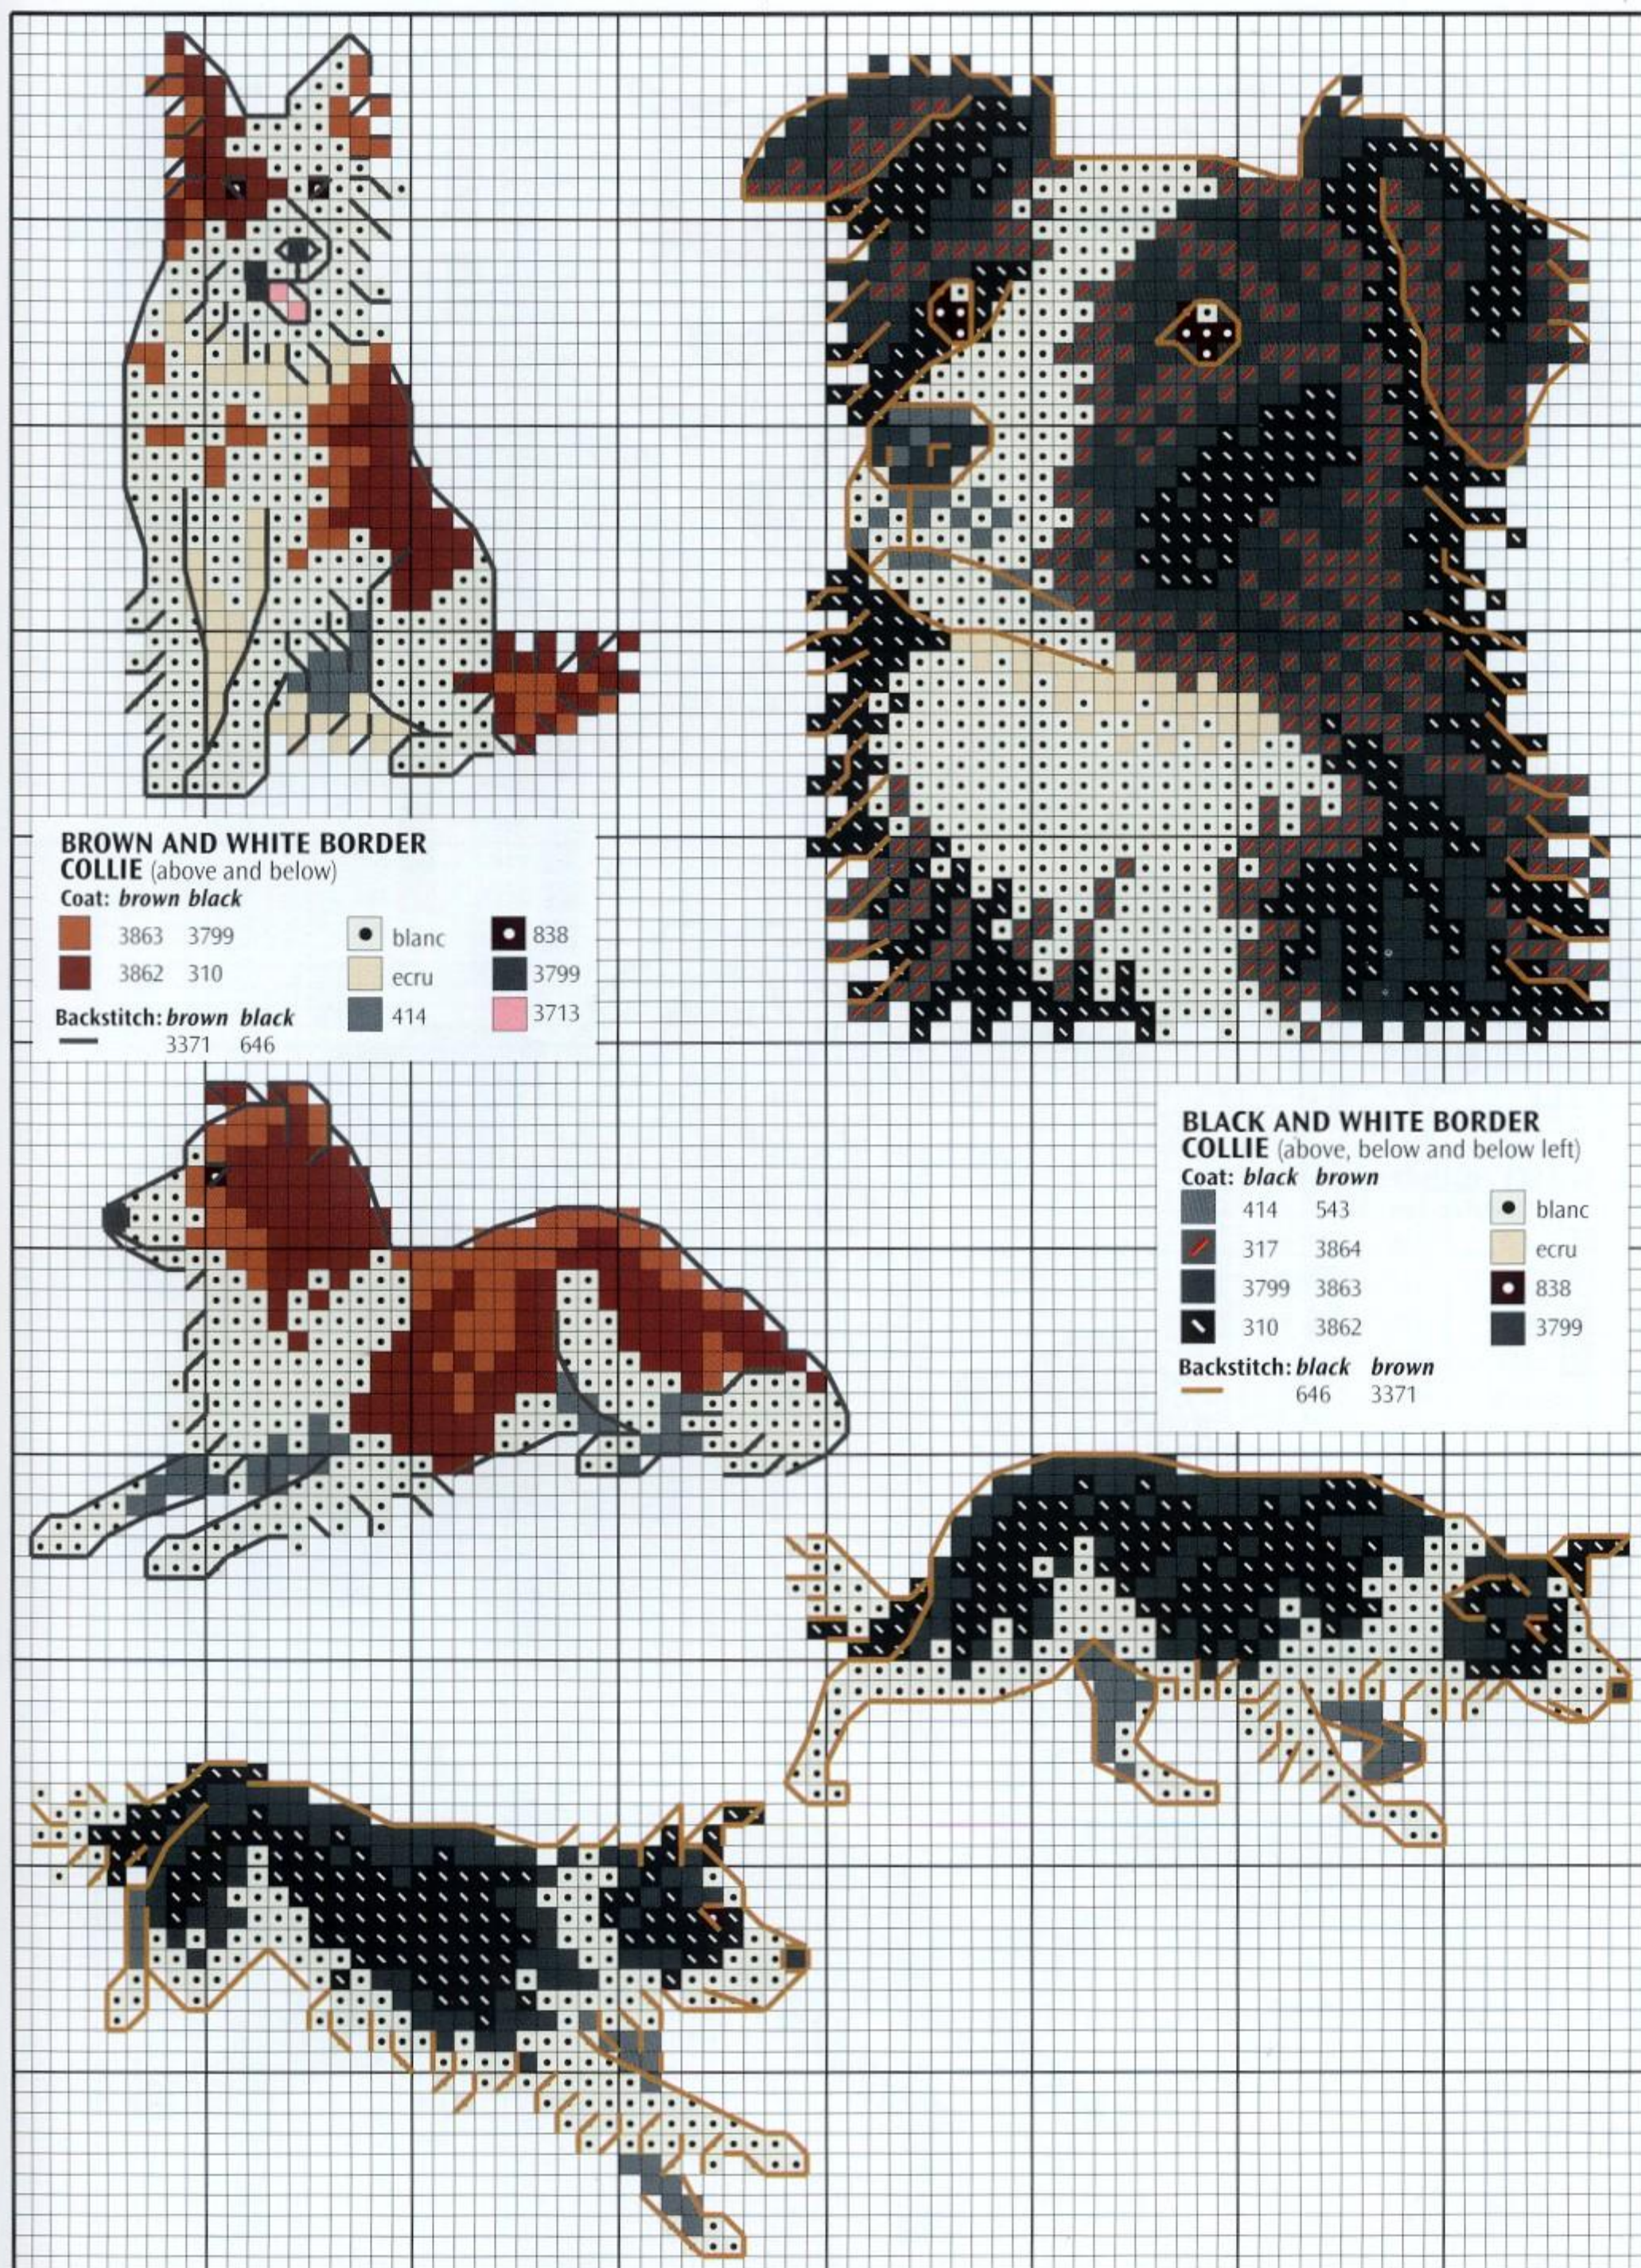

Tough, intelligent and fast moving, the Dobermann is the ultimate guard dog.

The Shetland Sheepdog or 'sheltie' has natural herding instincts, making him the organizer in the family.

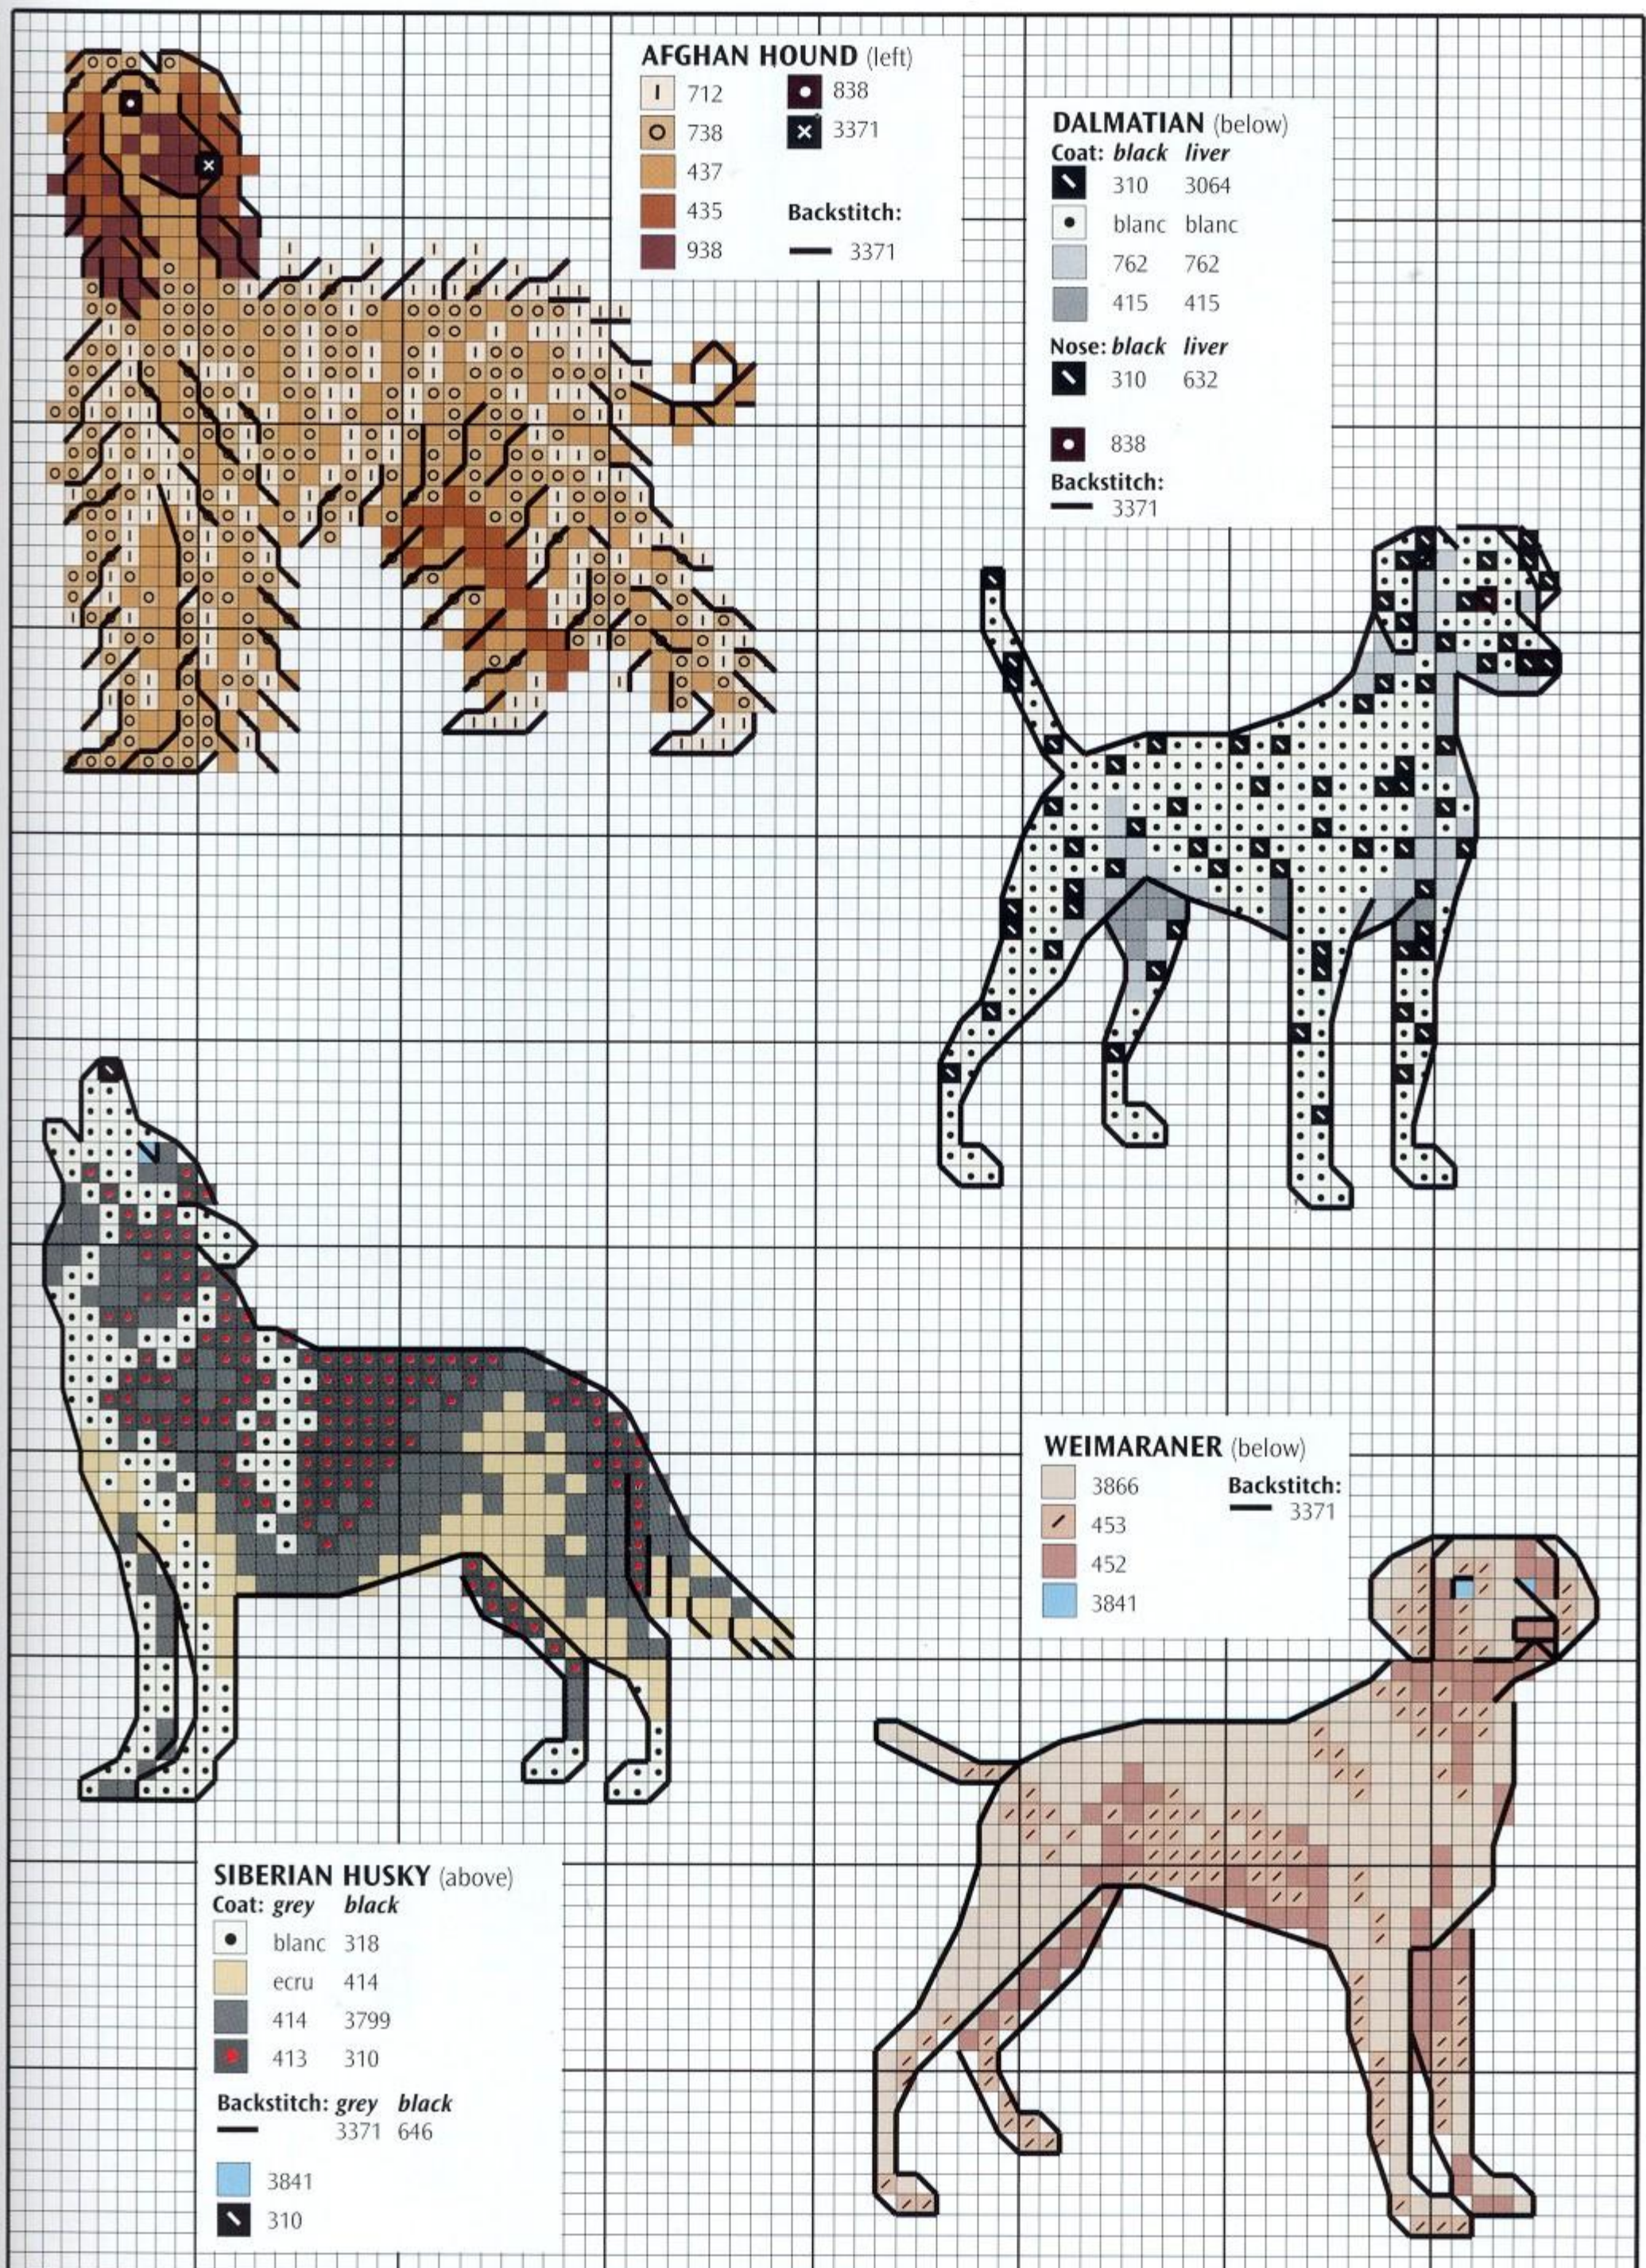

The Border Collie is a classic farm dog, intelligent with herding instincts but can get into mischief if not kept busy.

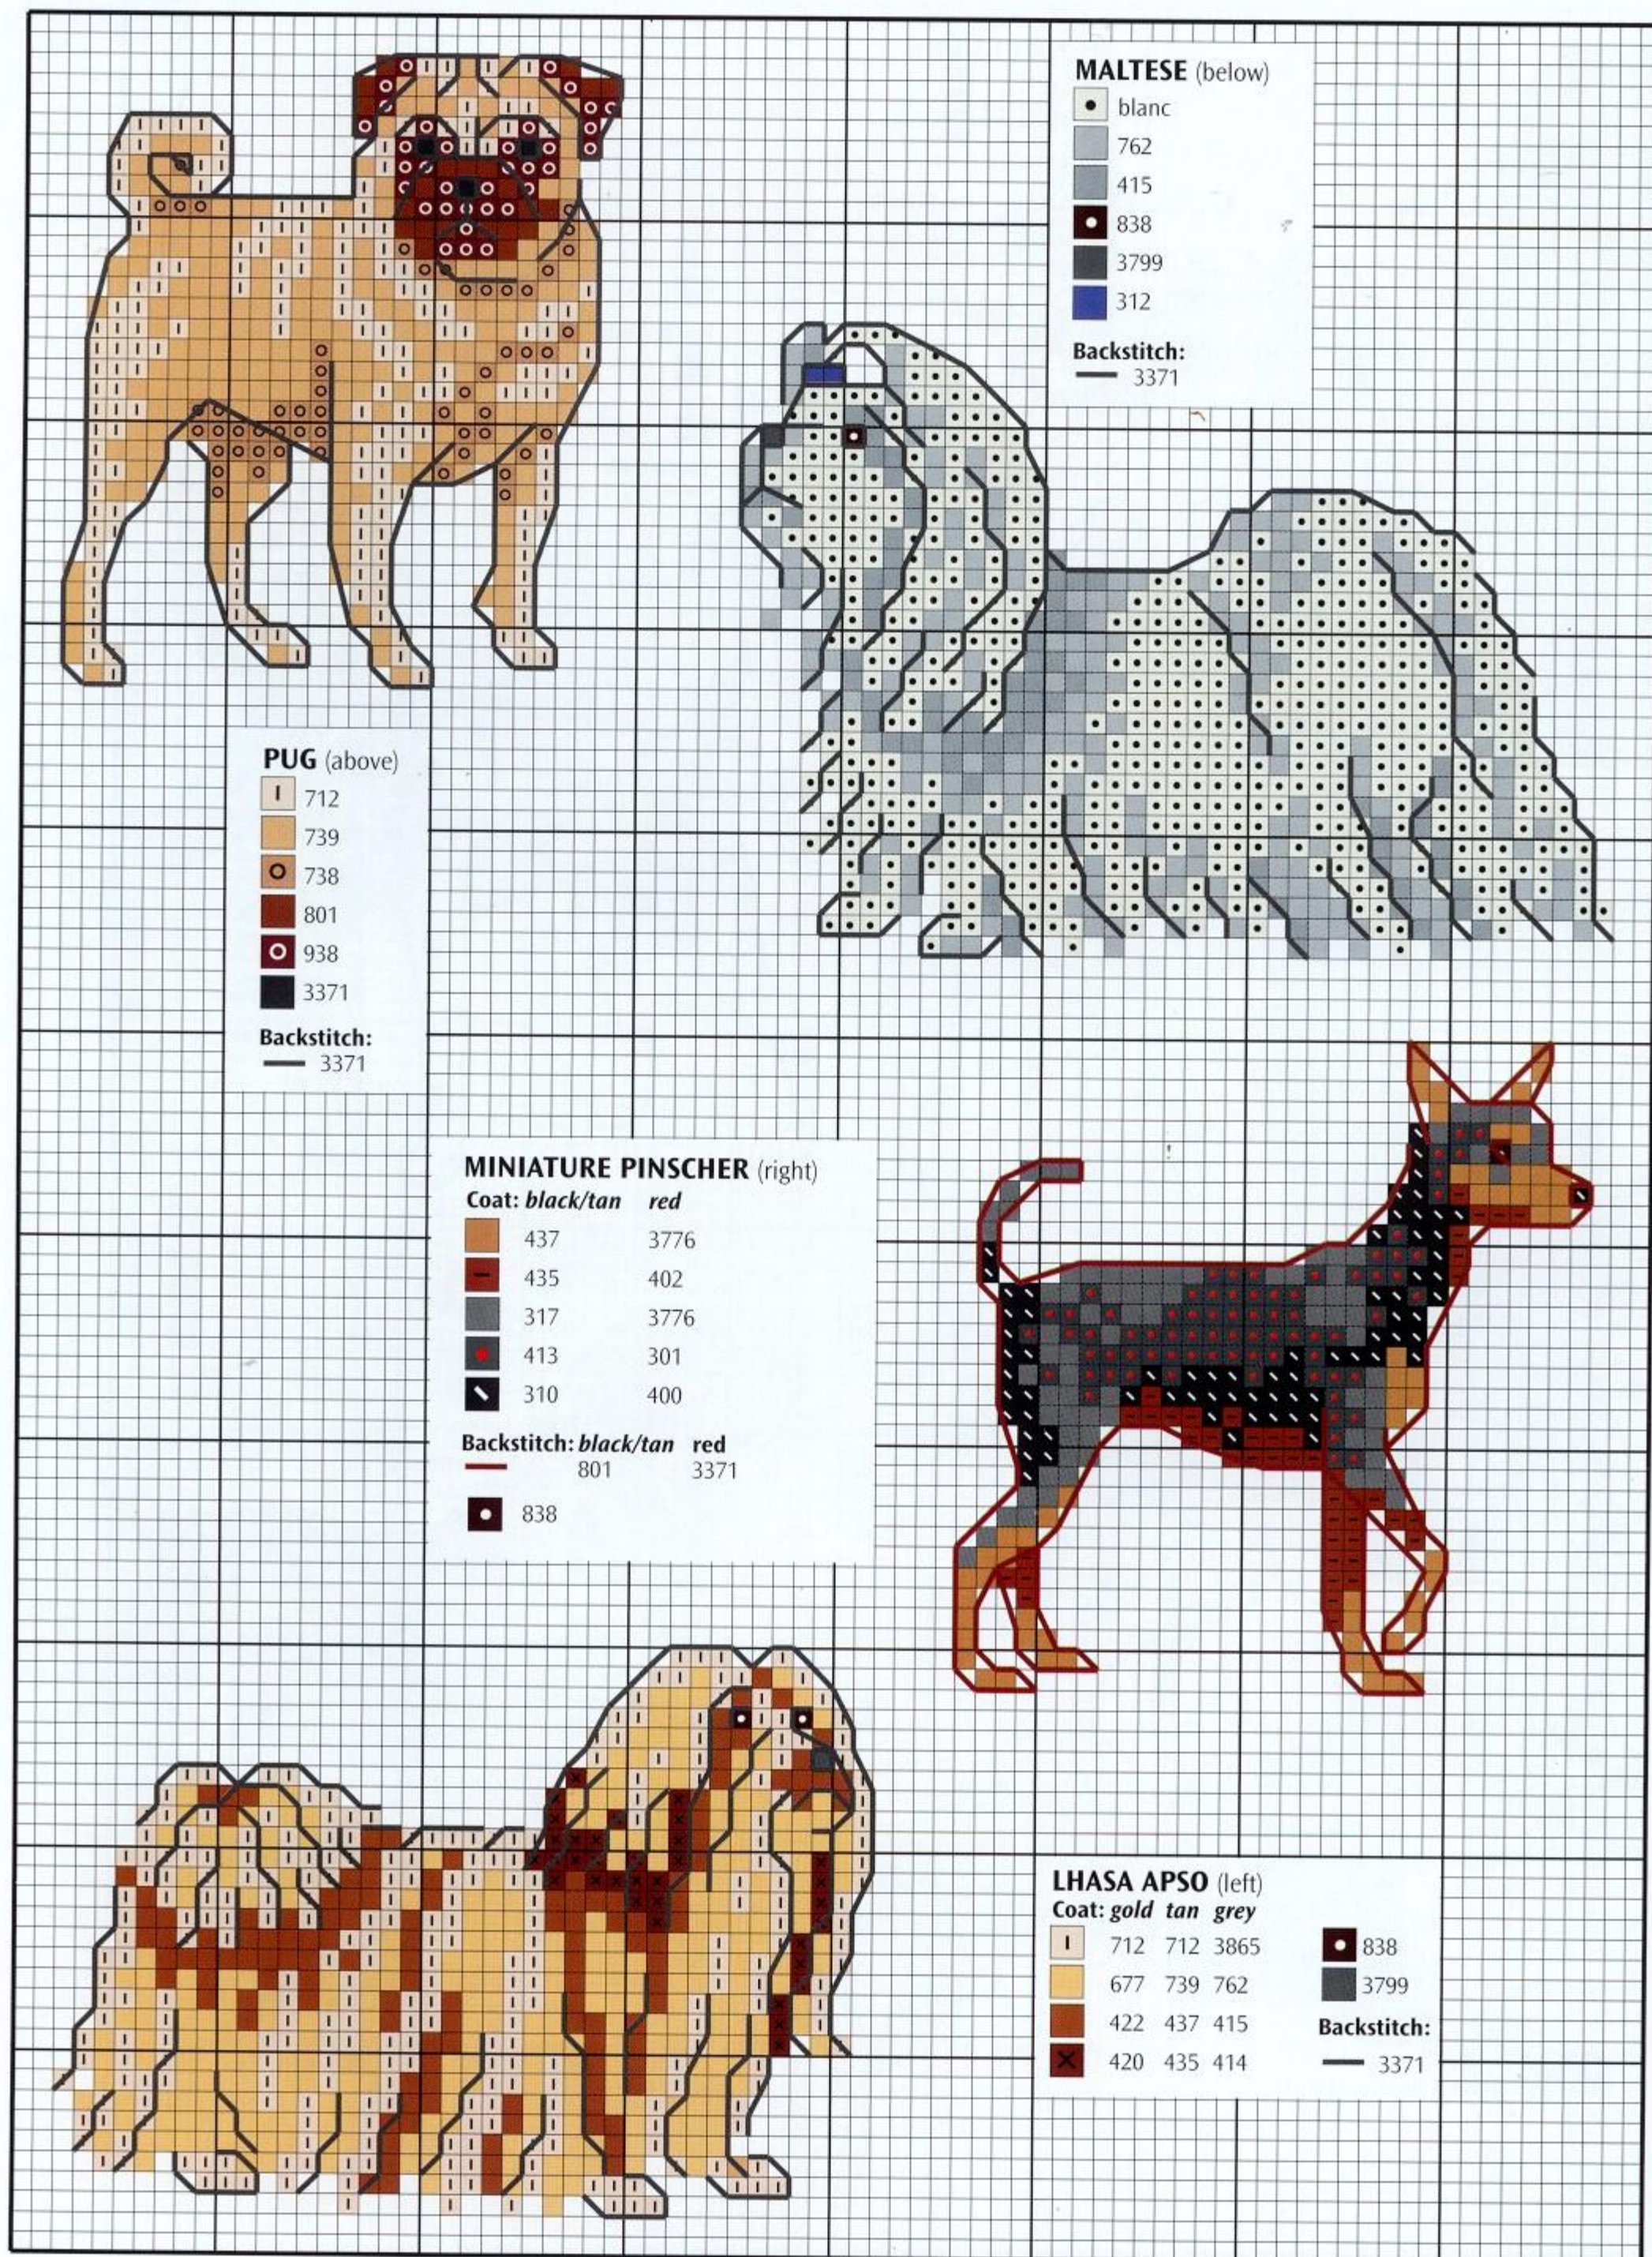

Utility Dogs are the workers of the canine world, with hunting, herding and tracking instincts.

Elegant and lithe in build, Hounds have the character and strength of their wild ancestors.

Small in stature but big in elegance and character, Toy Dogs are definitely not lap dogs.

Bustling, busy and full of mischief, Terriers are as happy to play as they are to work.
